

CAREER COUNSELING

Understanding what you do best is essential to succeeding professionally. But often we are unclear on our own strengths. Finding yourself standing on a crossroad is more than moment in time. It's the moment that you can ask yourself; "Am I happy?". Am I happy with the life I lead? Are there possibilities for increasing my happiness in life so that I can get more out of myself? Career Counseling by ACTRA NEXT is not just about your career, it's also about you as a person. Who are you and what makes you really happy.

The goal of career counseling is to discover your strengths. if you do what you are good at and it is great fun and you can excel in it. Identifying your strengths. It's about discovering your natural gifts, your passions, your skills, and your greatest abilities. We can help you focus on the strengths (and what you should avoid). We help you clarify if your current job is a fit and what you can do to address a mismatch.

Why choose career counseling?

There are several reasons for choosing coaching. Collaborating with colleagues is not easy, or you do not know which way you want to go with your career. Other questions for coaching:

- How do I combine organisational goals with my ambitions?
- What are my talents and how do I use them the best?
- How do I use the benefits of diversity in the workplace?
- How can I set up a self-managing team?
- Result of coaching

Why choose ACTRA NEXT?

We think that this is a question you can only answer if you spoke with us. So contact us. Intakes are free.